INTRODUCTION.

THE "Corrupt Practices Act, 1883," which comes into force on the 15th of October next, has two main objects: first, that of the prevention of illegal and corrupt practices in connection with parliamentary elections; and, secondly, the diminution of expense in the conduct of such elections. Both these objects are carefully and elaborately provided for in this Act, and if its provisions are honestly carried out, the length of a man's purse will not, as now, be such an important factor; and the way will be opened for many men of talent, with small means, to take part in the government of the country, who have been hitherto deterred from seeking a seat in the House of Commons by the great expense which a contest entails. It is to be hoped, that not only will the House of Commons thus gain by the addition to its ranks of talented members, but that the people themselves will be gainers, by having their sense of patriotism increased, inasmuch as most of the work of the election will have to be of a voluntary character; and the electors will feel that a great public duty is put upon them; and that they are not merely assisting in a business which is to result in lining their own pockets in return for the social elevation or aggrandisement of the candidate. The Act is only to remain in force till the 31st of December, 1884, unless continued by Parliament, but there is not much doubt that so well-considered and beneficial an Act will be renewed. It is to be regretted, however, that when the Act was drafted, it did not repeal all prior statutes relating to corrupt practices, instead of leaving a section here, and a part of a section somewhere else, which have to be read with this statute.

The Act is divided into ten parts : the first four dealing with matters which are illegal, the fifth with expenditure which is permissible, and the rest of the Act with election petitions and the legal proceedings consequent thereon. The matters which are declared to be illegal are under three heads, Corrupt Practices, Illegal Practices, and Illegal Payment, Employment, or Hiring.

CORRUPT PRACTICES.

Prior to this Act, although treating was illegal, and rendered the candidate, if he was a party to it, liable to a heavy penalty, and rendered the voter who accepted it incapable of voting, it did not punish the person treating, unless he were the candidate. It is now enacted that any person who, before, during, or after an election, by himself or by any other person, either directly or indirectly, gives, or provides, or pays, wholly or in part, the expense of giving or providing any meat, drink, entertainment or provision to, or for, any person, for the purpose of corruptly influencing that person, or any other person, to give, or refrain from giving, his vote at the election ; or, on account of his having voted, or refrained from voting, or, being about to vote, or refrain from voting, shall be guilty of treating. And every elector who corruptly accepts the same will also be guilty of the same offence.

Bribery is defined by the Corrupt Practices Prevention Act of 1854 to comprise the giving, or lending, or offering, or providing to give, or lend, any money, or valuable consideration, to a voter, or to any person on behalf of a voter, or to any other person, to induce any voter either to vote, or refrain from voting. It likewise includes the offer of, or agreeing to give, or procure, any office, place, or employment, for any voter, or the corruptly doing of any such act on account of any voter having voted, or refrained from voting.

Although the word "corruptly" is not used in the section defining the offence, it is to be implied.

Candidates may subscribe to political associations for the purpose of defraying the expenses of registration of voters, but it is doubtful whether payment could be made to a man to compensate him for loss of time in attending the revising barrister's court to substantiate his claim to vote. It is clear that payment for a man's loss of time in going to the poll would be bribery, and that paying a man's rates for the purpose of enabling him to be registered as a voter would be illegal if done for the purpose of corruptly influencing his vote. A voter who is employed in any capacity in the election may not vote, but if he did, probably it would be bribery, as well as an illegal practice. Charities dispensed by a candidate, or his agent, would be bribery, if corruptly given for the purpose of influencing the voter receiving them. To be "corrupt" the act must be done with the intention of influencing the election, and many acts, which are perfectly innocent in themselves, would become illegal, if done with this purpose in view.

Undue influence is defined by the present Act to mean the using, or threatening to use, any violence, force, or restraint, or inflicting, or threatening to inflict, any temporal or spiritual injury, damage, harm, or loss, upon any person to induce him to vote, or refrain from voting. The words are almost identical with those of the Act of 1854, with the exception of the words "temporal or spiritual injury," which have been substituted for the word "intimidation," in the earlier Act.

Temporal injury no doubt points to such cases as the threat of eviction by a landlord, or the withdrawal of custom, or dismissal from employment. While "spiritual injury" would probably mean the threat of ex-communication by an ecclesiastic, or the denial of the rites of religion. It appears doubtful whether the mere excitation of superstitious fears—as, for example, telling a man that if he votes for A B he will peril his soul—would be considered a spiritual injury. This seems to be a change for the worse, inasmuch as it is not an unknown circumstance that priestly influence has been brought to bear in favour of candidates of a certain class, and unfortunately there are electors amenable to such influence. It is probable that the detaining of workmen, so as to prevent their voting, would come within the word “restraint.”

The punishment for bribery, treating, or undue influence, is imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a term not exceeding one year, or a fine not exceeding £200. In addition to this, the offender is to be incapable of being registered as a voter, or voting in any election for seven years after the date of conviction (this only refers to parliamentary elections) ; and he is excluded from holding any judicial or public office. This includes the office of justice of the peace, and revising barrister.

Personation of a voter, or the aiding or abetting of the offence is to be even more strictly dealt with ; any person convicted of this offence is guilty of felony, and is subject on conviction to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a term not exceeding two years.

By the Ballot Act, personation not only includes the application for a ballot paper in the name of some other person, either living or dead, or of a fictitious person, but the application for a ballot paper in the voter's own name, when he has already voted once at the election.

Where, after a trial of an election petition, it is reported to the Speaker by the court, that the offence of bribery, or personation, was committed by any candidate, or with his consent, or that treating or undue influence was exercised by him, or with his consent, in addition to the punishment already specified for such offences, he is for ever rendered incapable of sitting in the House of Commons for the county or borough in which the offence was committed.

Where it is reported that the candidate, by his agents, has been guilty of any corrupt practice, he is precluded from sitting in the House of Commons for that county or borough for seven years from the date of the report; and in both cases the election is void.

ILLEGAL PRACTICES.

By this Act, payment for the conveyance of voters to the poll is prohibited, either by road or rail; likewise, payment to electors for the exhibition of bills of any kind, except where it is the business of the voter to post or exhibit bills. Payment for the use of committee rooms, beyond the number allowed by the Act, is also declared illegal. A Schedule attached to the Act limits the amount which may be spent in an election, any expenditure in excess of this amount is an illegal practice, and renders the candidate, or his election agent, who knowingly breaks the law, liable to punishment.

Publishing a false statement of the withdrawal of a candidate is an illegal practice; likewise inducing a person to vote who is prohibited by law from voting, or voting where the voter is ineligible to vote—as, for instance, where he is a paid clerk or agent engaged in the election. In these cases, however, the candidate is not liable for the act of any agent, except his election agent. The punishment for breach of this enactment is a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds, and being incapacitated from being registered as an elector, or voting at any election, either Parliamentary or for a public office within the county or borough in which the offence was committed, for the space of five years from the date of conviction.

A public office means any office under the Crown, or under the charter of a city or borough, or for a member of a school board, or local board, or guardian, or any other municipal or parochial office.

It is also enacted that where an enquiry is held by an election court, they are now to report illegal practices, as well as corrupt practices, and if they report that any illegal practice has been committed, by or with the knowledge or consent of any candidate, he is incapacitated from sitting in the House for that county or borough for seven years; while if the report states that the agents of the candidate have been guilty of illegal practices, such candidate cannot be elected or sit for that place during the parliament for which the election was held, and in both cases the election is void.

The law of agency is not affected by this Act, and therefore all persons who do any acts tending to promote the election of a candidate, with his own or his authorised agents' knowledge, would be agents, whether paid or not. Thus, every member of the executive committee of a political association which was supporting any candidate might void an election, were he guilty of any illegal practice, as defined by this Act. A mere canvasser who was sent round to obtain information, rather than to exercise personal influence, would hardly be deemed an agent, nor would the candidate be liable for the acts of any member of a general committee of several hundreds, who were only nominally a committee, unless some special circumstance brought such member into a more close relationship with the candidate. The law of agency, however, is very vaguely defined, and it would be impossible within the limits of the present paper to adequately discuss it.

ILLEGAL PAYMENT, EMPLOYMENT, AND HIRING.

By this Act it is illegal to provide money for the payment of anything contrary to the provisions of this Act, or of expenses in excess of the maximum amount allowed by the Act. This will affect political associations as well as some of the great political clubs, who have hitherto been active in supplying pecuniary aid in certain places. It is prohibited to let, lend, or employ any stage or hackney carriage or horse or other animal kept for drawing it, or any horse or carriage kept for the purpose of letting out on hire, for the purpose of gratuitously conveying voters to the poll.

But there is nothing to prevent any voter or party of voters hiring any such carriage at their own joint cost. There is no provision for the conveyance of the sick and infirm as was at first suggested; but there is nothing to prevent any person lending any conveyance not covered by the previous words—that is, not being a conveyance usually let out on hire—gratuitously for the purpose of the conveyance of voters, and no duty will be payable or any license required for such conveyance. The only exception in which payment may be made for the conveyance of voters, is where the nature of the county is such that any electors are unable to reach their polling place without crossing the sea, or an arm of the sea. In such a case payment would be allowed in addition to the maximum amount of expenses allowed by the Act. Corruptly inducing or procuring a candidate to withdraw from an election in consideration of payment, or promise of payment, is an illegal payment within the Act, and renders both the parties liable to punishment. It is to be noted that wherever the word “payment” is used in this Act, it includes the giving or promising any office, place, or employment, and any valuable consideration or other equivalent for money.

Payment for bands of music, torches, flags, banners, cockades, ribbons, or other marks of distinction, is prohibited, and is an illegal payment. By the Act of 1854 such payments were declared to be illegal, and rendered persons making them liable to 40s. penalty in every case; but this Act makes it an offence punishable by a fine of £100, and in the case of a candidate or his election agent it is to be deemed an illegal practice, with all the penalties attendant upon such an offence.

It is not only at the immediate period of the election that such payment or contract to pay is forbidden; by the Act, if before, during, or after an election, this section of the Act is contravened, the person making the payment is guilty of illegal payment, and any person being party to such a contract or receiving such payment, knowing that it was being made contrary to law, will be equally guilty.

As the Act specifies what persons may be employed for payment, and in what capacities, it is made illegal to employ any other persons. Therefore the employment of clerks or messengers in excess of the number specified is illegal; while the employment of paid canvassers or watchers is absolutely prohibited. Every bill, poster, or placard having reference to an election, must bear upon its face the name of the printer or publisher, and the issuing or posting of such bills, &c., by a candidate or his election agent without such name is a corrupt practice, and in the case of any other person an illegal practice. This will have a very salutary effect in some places, and will probably put an end to some of the scurrilous libels incident to election times.

It is an illegal hiring to have committee rooms for election purposes in any public house, or refreshment house, or any premises where intoxicating liquors are licensed to be sold, either wholesale or retail; the only exception being that of a permanent political club. Nor may committee rooms be taken in any public elementary school receiving an annual parliamentary grant, unless in any of these cases the other parts of the premises are structurally separate from the prohibited premises, and are ordinarily let-off as chambers or offices, or used for public meetings or arbitrations.

The term "committee room" will not include any house or room occupied by the candidate as his dwelling, merely because the candidate transacts business with his agents there; nor will a room in which the candidate addresses the electors or his committee men be so considered. This is evidently to meet the difficulty of the candidate staying at an hotel where, without doubt, he would frequently be obliged to see his agents and members of his committee.

As before stated, any person guilty of the offence of illegal payment, hiring or employment, is liable to a fine of £100, and if he is a candidate or election agent it becomes a corrupt practice, with its penal results to the candidate of exclusion from the House of Commons, and the voiding of the election.

There is, however, a provision in favor of the candidate, that where, on an enquiry by an election court, it shall be proved, and the court shall report that, although offences have been committed contrary to the statute, that they were committed without the sanction or connivance of the candidate or his election agent, and that the candidate and his agent took all reasonable means to prevent such offences, and that in all other respects the candidate and his agent were free from any corrupt or illegal practice; in such case the candidate is not liable to any penalty under this Act. Likewise, where any payment, employment, or other matter has been made or done in contravention of the Act innocently, and it is proved either to the High Court, or the Election Court, that such acts have been inadvertent, and the court accepts the excuse, the court has power to allow the matter to be an exception to the Act, and to exonerate all parties from blame. It may be taken, however, that the court will expect very strong evidence of innocence before it grants absolution to candidate or agent. Any indictment under this Act, or the Corrupt Practices Prevention Acts, may be tried at the Central Criminal Court, or before a Judge with a Special Jury at the Royal Courts of Justice if the Court so directs.

ELECTION EXPENSES.

The next part of the Act deals with election expenses. A candidate on or before the day of nomination must name some person to be his election agent (he may now nominate himself if he chooses). In counties he may nominate one sub-agent for each polling district, who is equally responsible with the election agent, and the candidate for both. The returning officer is to have notice given him of the appointment of the agent or sub-agents, and is to publicly notify the same. When an election agent ceases to be agent for a candidate the appointment of the sub-agents still exists, unless revoked by the election agent for the time being. Both agent and sub-agent must have, within the county or borough they act for, an office where all claims or documents may be sent, and the notice issued by the returning officer must state the address.

No contract is enforceable against a candidate or his election agent unless it was made by the candidate himself or his election agent or sub-agent duly appointed, although the inability to enforce the contract does not relieve the candidate or his agent from the consequences of any acts, illegal or corrupt, that may have been done by other agents.

Every payment above 40s. must be vouched for by a bill stating the particulars and by a receipt.

All claims against a candidate must be sent in fourteen days after the election, instead of one month as heretofore; and all expenses must be paid within twenty-eight days from the date of election, except where there is a dispute between the election agent and the person who has made a claim; in that case the claimant is left to his remedy of action, and if it is only the amount which is in dispute, the court may order it to be settled by an arbitrator (either a master or official referee or some other officer of the court).

The candidate is permitted by the Act to spend a sum not exceeding £100, for personal expenses, including hotel bills, &c., and within fourteen days after the election he must supply the election agent with an account of such expenditure.

The election agent may authorise in writing any person to expend any sum for petty expenses, for postage, telegrams, stationery, &c., but must limit the amount, and will himself be liable for any excess of that amount.

Within thirty-five days from the date of election, the election agent for each candidate must return a statement of all payments, with bills and receipts, of the personal expenses of the candidate, of the returning officer's charges, and of any disputed or unpaid claims, and, in addition, must state what moneys, securities, or equivalents for money, he has received from the candidate or from any other person for the purposes of the expenses of the election, with a statement of the names of the persons from whom they were received.

This provision, together with the one recently adverted to, making all persons supplying money in excess of the maximum amount allowed by the Act to be expended, liable for an illegal payment, will have to be carefully considered by political associations; the Interpretation Clause of the Act including any association or body of persons in the word "person," and stating that the members of such associations shall be liable to any fine or punishment imposed by the Act.

The return, having been made, must be transmitted to the returning officer, accompanied by a declaration by the election agent, made before a justice of the peace, stating that the return is correct, and that no other payment has been made, either by himself or any other person, club, society, or association, or any promise made of payment, or offer of reward, office, employment, &c., and that beyond the return he makes, no money has been deposited, paid, or advanced for the management of the election.

Within seven days of the return by the agent, the candidate must make a declaration.

This declaration states, that beyond the amount stated in the return, the candidate believes that no person, club, or association has made any payment, or promised any reward, office, employment, or valuable consideration in respect of the election, and that the return made is correct, and that he will not be a party to making any other payment at any future time in respect of the election.

The penalty for not transmitting the return of election expenses, as directed by the Act, is, that after the time specified, the person elected cannot sit or vote in the House of Commons until the Act is complied with, and if he sit or votes he is liable to forfeit £100 per day to any person choosing to sue for the penalty, and the election agent is guilty of an illegal practice.

Refusal or failure on the part of an election agent or sub-agent to make the necessary return renders such person liable to a fine of £500.

A false declaration brings the person making it within the criminal law, and they are liable to punishment for wilful and corrupt perjury. The High Court has power to excuse any error or false statement in the return, or the non-transmission, as directed, where the error has arisen from illness, absence, death, or misconduct of any agent or clerk, or from any reasonable cause.

A summary of the returns is to be published by the returning officer within ten days, in two newspapers circulating in the county or borough for which the election was held, and he is to state at the same time where the returns may be seen.

Any person may inspect the returns and declarations at the office of the returning officer upon payment of one shilling, and have copies made at a specified charge. They are to remain open for inspection for two years, and after that time are to be either destroyed or returned to the candidate, if he wishes it.

Before a person, not being a candidate or party to the election petition, is reported guilty of any corrupt or illegal practice, he is to have the opportunity of being heard and of defending himself. He has a right of appeal to the next assizes.

The public prosecutor who is to be represented at all inquiries by an election court is directed to report any case to the Lord Chancellor, where a justice of the peace has been guilty of any corrupt practice, and the Lord Chancellor has power to remove him from the commission of the peace. When a barrister or a solicitor, or surgeon, or a physician is reported guilty of corrupt practice, the public prosecutor is to report their case to whatever tribunal has power to deal with the person reported, as the High Court or an Inn of Court.

Persons holding licenses under the Licensing Acts reported guilty of bribery or treating, are to be reported to the licensing justices, and they shall consider whether the license shall be renewed.

A list is to be made annually in every county or borough of persons who have been found guilty of corrupt or illegal practices, and who would otherwise be entitled to vote, and the list is to be published with the list of voters by the overseers, and the names of all such persons are to be expunged from the list of voters.

The time for petitioning against a return is shortened from 21 to 14 days in cases where illegal practices alone are alleged; in cases where bribery is alleged the period is still 28 days. In calculating the number of days, Sundays will not count, and it excludes the first and includes the last day. The time will begin to run from the day on which the returning officer receives the return and declaration from the election agent, and if they were not received at the same time, then the time is to commence from the day on which the last was received.

When once a petition is lodged it cannot be withdrawn without the consent of the High Court. It is illegal to make an arrangement to withdraw a petition for payment, or in consideration of the seat being vacated at some future time, or in consideration of the withdrawal of any other petition. Liability to imprisonment for twelve months and a fine of £200 is the penalty for the infraction of this section. The public prosecutor is to attend the trial of every election petition by himself or representative, and he has power to intervene and call witnesses. It is his duty also to prosecute all persons who have been guilty of corrupt or illegal practices, and who have not received a certificate of indemnity from the court. The court has power to make the parties to the petition pay the public prosecutor's costs.

No person can be prosecuted for any offence under this Act after twelve months from the time when the alleged offence was committed, or three months after the election court has made its report; and in the latter case it must be within two years after the offence was committed.

Polling districts are to be so arranged in counties that every elector shall have a polling place within three miles of his residence, except where the district is so sparsely populated that it would contain less than 100 voters.

In boroughs every resident elector shall have a polling place within one mile of his residence ; but it is optional with the local authority so to divide the borough if a polling district would contain less than 300 voters.

The boroughs of East Retford, Shoreham, Cricklade, Much Wenlock and Aylesbury are excepted from this provision. The distance in these cases being extended to three miles, and the number of electors reduced to 100.

Section 5 of the Ballot Act is incorporated with this section, and therefore any order for the division of polling districts only applies to lists of voters made after the date of the order, and to elections held after the time when the register so formed comes into force.

The Act is made applicable to Scotland and Ireland. The only exception being, that in Scotland the list of persons found guilty of corrupt or illegal practices are to be published by the assessor for the county or borough, and in Ireland by the registration officer himself, and not, as in England, by the overseers.

LEGAL EXPENDITURE.

Having pointed out the several matters which are illegal, the Act specifies the persons who may be employed and the amount which may be legally expended in an election.

Each candidate is allowed to have one election agent and no more, but a candidate may be his own election agent.

In counties, sub-agents may be appointed, one for each polling district ; and in counties and boroughs a polling agent in each polling station, presumably the latter persons are to act as personation agents, as no other persons are allowed to remain in a polling station under the Ballot Act, except the officials of the returning officer. A clerk and a messenger may be employed for the central committee room, and where the number of electors exceeds five thousand, an additional clerk and a messenger for every complete five thousand on the register.

Clerks and messengers, in the proportion of one of each for every polling district with five hundred electors, or if more than five hundred, a clerk and a messenger for each complete five hundred. If there are more than five hundred electors in a polling district, but not one thousand, two clerks and two messengers may be employed, or wherever after taking the complete number of five hundreds, there are a number not amounting to a complete five hundred, an additional clerk and a messenger may be employed. These clerks and messengers are not necessarily to be employed for any particular polling district, but may be sent to whatever place within the county their services are required.

In boroughs, besides the one election agent, only one clerk and a messenger may be employed for every five hundred electors on the register; for any number of electors over the complete five hundred, an additional clerk and a messenger may be employed. The boroughs of East Retford, Shoreham, Cricklade, Much Wenlock, and Aylesbury, are to stand in the same position with regard to the employment of clerks and messengers, as counties.

No person, in counties or boroughs, beyond those mentioned, may be employed for payment, or promise of payment, in any capacity whatever, and every person must be appointed and paid by the election agent. Therefore, paid secretaries and officers of political associations will not be able to take part in the work of the election, unless they are duly appointed as either election agents, clerks, or messengers. In boroughs, no sub-agents can be appointed. The election agent may give written authority to any person to pay petty expenses, such as postage, telegrams, &c., for a limited amount.

Any of the persons who are employed under this Act may be electors, but if electors they cannot vote, if they do they are subject to the penalties applicable to an illegal practice, and the vote is thrown away.

The candidate must pay the returning officer's expenses, which are regulated by the "Parliamentary Elections Act, 1875."

He is permitted to spend one hundred pounds for his personal expenses. These would be principally his hotel and travelling expenses; it would include any hospitality he extended to friends. This must be "reasonable;" although it is difficult to know where the line could be drawn. At any rate, he must not entertain any voters "corruptly" for the purpose of influencing their votes.

He may incur the expense of printing, advertising and publishing, issuing or distributing, addresses and notices.

Although the number of persons who may be employed at the election is limited by the Act, it would hardly include the services of persons employed to fold and direct notices at so much per thousand, nor the services of "sandwich men,"—who would only be part of the necessary expense of advertising—nor bill-stickers. Printers employed upon election literature would not come within the meaning of persons employed for payment.

The expense of stationery, messages, postage and telegrams are to be allowed, likewise the necessary expenses attending the holding of public meetings.

The expenses of a number of committee rooms, within the limits laid down by the Act, are also to be allowed.

Exclusive of the personal expenses of the candidate and the returning officer's expenses in an English or Scotch county, where the electors on the register do not number more than 2,000, £650 is the maximum amount which may be spent; in Ireland it is limited to £500. Where there are more than 2,000 electors, in England or Scotland, £60 in addition for every complete 1,000 over the first 2,000, and in Ireland £40 additional for every 1,000 may be spent.

In English and Scotch boroughs, after payment of returning officer's charges, and candidates personal expenses, the maximum amount would be £350, where the electors on the register do not exceed 2,000 in number, and for every complete 1,000 over the first 2,000 an additional sum of £30; while in Ireland, where the electors do not exceed 500 in number, £200 may be spent, with an additional £50 if more than 500, but not more than 1000. If more than 1000 but not more than 1500, the total amount expended may be £375. There is no provision for any borough in Ireland which may have more than 1,500 electors on the register.

Of these amounts not more than £200 may be spent on miscellaneous matters not comprised in the list above given, although it is difficult to see what that amount could possibly be spent on honestly after payment of agents, clerks and messengers, printing, postage, and the other various matters set out in the schedule. Each candidate is at liberty to spend his money up to the limit laid down by the Act, where he is standing alone; but where two candidates agree to use joint committee rooms, or employ the services of the same sub-agents, clerks, messengers, or polling agents, or publish a joint address, they will only be permitted to expend three-fourths of that amount, and if there are more than two joint candidates, only two-thirds of the maximum amount.

The practical result of this scale may be shown thus—

In the county of Middlesex, with its 38,373 electors, the utmost which it would be legal for a candidate to spend would be £2,870 exclusive of personal expenses and returning officer's expenses; if two candidates ran together it would be £2,152. 10s. each.

In the borough of Marylebone, with a register of 43,000 electors, the maximum amount would be £1,580 per candidate, or for a joint candidature £1,185.

At the last election, these constituencies cost the candidates an average, in Middlesex, of £5,961. 5s. 3d. a-piece, and in Marylebone £1,960. 7s.

Such are the principal provisions of the Corrupt Practices Act of 1883, which I have endeavoured to summarise and place before the public in as concise a form as possible.

CHAPTER 51.

A.D. 1883. An Act for the better prevention of Corrupt and Illegal Practices at Parliamentary Elections.

[25th August, 1883.]

BE it enacted by the Queen's most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:

Corrupt Practices.

What is treating.

1. Whereas under section four of the Corrupt Practices Prevention Act, 1854, persons other than candidates at Parliamentary elections are not liable to any punishment for treating, and it is expedient to make such persons liable; be it therefore enacted in substitution for the said section four as follows:—

- (1.) Any person who corruptly by himself or by any other person, either before, during, or after an election, directly or indirectly gives or provides, or pays wholly or in part the expense of giving or providing, any meat drink entertainment or provision to or for any person, for the purpose of corruptly influencing that person or any other person to give or refrain from giving his vote at the election, or on account of such person or any other person having voted or refrained from voting, or being about to vote or refrain from voting at such election, shall be guilty of treating.
- (2.) And every elector who corruptly accepts or takes any such meat drink entertainment or provision shall also be guilty of treating.

What is undue influence.

2. Every person who shall directly or indirectly, by himself or by any other person on his behalf, make use of or threaten to make use of any force, violence, or restraint, or inflict or threaten to inflict, by himself or by any other person, any temporal or spiritual injury, damage, harm, or loss upon or against any person in order to induce or compel such person to vote or refrain from voting, or on account of such person having voted or refrained from voting at any election, or who shall by abduction, duress, or any fraudulent device or contrivance impede or prevent the free exercise of the franchise of any elector, or shall thereby compel, induce, or prevail upon any elector either to give or to refrain from giving his vote at any election, shall be guilty of undue influence.

3. The expression "corrupt practice" as used in this Act means any of the following offences: namely, treating and undue influence, as defined by this Act, and bribery, and personation, as defined by the enactments set forth in Part III. of the Third Schedule to this Act, and aiding, abetting, counselling, and procuring the commission of the offence of personation, and every offence which is a corrupt practice within the meaning of this Act shall be a corrupt practice within the meaning of the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868.

What is corrupt practice.

31 & 32 Vict.
c. 125.

4. Where upon the trial of an election petition respecting an election for a county or borough the election court, by the report made to the Speaker in pursuance of section eleven of the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868, reports that any corrupt practice other than treating or undue influence has been proved to have been committed in reference to such election by or with the knowledge and consent of any candidate at such election, or that the offence of treating or undue influence has been proved to have been committed in reference to such election by any candidate at such election, that candidate shall not be capable of ever being elected to or sitting in the House of Commons for the said county or borough, and if he has been elected, his election shall be void; and he shall further be subject to the same incapacities as if at the date of the said report he had been convicted on an indictment of a corrupt practice.

Punishment of candidate found, on election petition, guilty personally of corrupt practices.
31 & 32 Vict.
c. 125.

5. Upon the trial of an election petition respecting an election for a county or borough, in which a charge is made of any corrupt practice having been committed in reference to such election, the election court shall report in writing to the Speaker whether any of the candidates at such election has been guilty by his agents of any corrupt practice in reference to such election; and if the report is that any candidate at such election has been guilty by his agents of any corrupt practice in reference to such election, that candidate shall not be capable of being elected to or sitting in the House of Commons for such county or borough for seven years after the date of the report, and if he has been elected his election shall be void.

Punishment of candidate found, on election petition, guilty by agents of corrupt practices.

6. (1.) A person who commits any corrupt practice other than personation, or aiding, abetting, counselling, or procuring the commission of the offence of personation, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction on indictment shall be liable to be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for a term not exceeding one year, or to be fined any sum not exceeding two hundred pounds.

(2.) A person who commits the offence of personation, or of aiding, abetting, counselling, or procuring the commission of that offence, shall be guilty of felony, and any person convicted thereof on indictment shall be punished by imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, together with hard labour.

(3.) A person who is convicted on indictment of any corrupt practice shall (in addition to any punishment as above provided) be not capable during a period of seven years from the date of his conviction:

(a.) of being registered as an elector or voting at any election in the United Kingdom, whether it be a parliamentary election or an election for any public office within the meaning of this Act; or (b.) of holding any public or judicial office within the meaning of this Act, and if he holds any such office the office shall be vacated.

(4.) Any person so convicted of a corrupt practice in reference to any election shall also be incapable of being elected to and of sitting in the House of Commons during the seven years next after the date of his conviction, and if at that date he has been elected to the House of Commons his election shall be vacated from the time of such conviction.

Illegal Practices.

Certain expenditure to be illegal practice.

7. (1.) No payment or contract for payment shall, for the purpose of promoting or procuring the election of a candidate at any election, be made—

(a.) on account of the conveyance of electors to or from the poll, whether for the hiring of horses or carriages, or for railway fares, or otherwise; or

(b.) to an elector on account of the use of any house, land, building, or premises for the exhibition of any address, bill, or notice, or on account of the exhibition of any address, bill, or notice; or

(c.) on account of any committee room in excess of the number allowed by the First Schedule to this Act.

(2.) Subject to such exception as may be allowed in pursuance of this Act, if any payment or contract for payment is knowingly made in contravention of this section either before, during, or after an election, the person making such payment or contract shall be guilty of an illegal practice, and any person receiving such payment or being a party to any such contract, knowing the same to be in contravention of this Act, shall also be guilty of an illegal practice.

(3.) Provided that where it is the ordinary business of an elector as an advertising agent to exhibit for payment bills and advertisements, a payment to or contract with such elector, if made in the ordinary course of business, shall not be deemed to be an illegal practice within the meaning of this section.

8. (1.) Subject to such exception as may be allowed in pursuance of this Act, no sum shall be paid and no expense shall be incurred by a candidate at an election or his election agent, whether before, during, or after an election, on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of such election, in excess of any maximum amount in that behalf specified in the First Schedule to this Act.

Expense in excess of maximum to be illegal practice.

(2.) Any candidate or election agent who knowingly acts in contravention of this section shall be guilty of an illegal practice.

9. (1.) If any person votes or induces or procures any person to vote at any election, knowing that he or such person is prohibited, whether by this or any other Act from voting at such election, he shall be guilty of an illegal practice.

Voting by prohibited persons and publishing of false statements of withdrawal to be illegal.

(2.) Any person who before or during an election knowingly publishes a false statement of the withdrawal of a candidate at such election for the purpose of promoting or procuring the election of another candidate shall be guilty of an illegal practice.

(3.) Provided that a candidate shall not be liable, nor shall his election be avoided, for any illegal practice under this section committed by his agent other than his election agent.

10. A person guilty of an illegal practice, whether under the foregoing sections or under the provisions hereinafter contained in this Act, shall on summary conviction be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds and be incapable during a period of five years from the date of his conviction of being registered as an elector or voting at any election (whether it be a parliamentary election or an election for a public office within the meaning of this Act) held for or within the county or borough in which the illegal practice has been committed.

Punishment on conviction of illegal practice.

11. Whereas by sub-section fourteen of section eleven of the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868, it is provided that where a charge is made in an election petition of any corrupt practice having been committed at the election to which the petition refers, the judge shall report in writing to the Speaker as follows:—

Report of election court respecting illegal practice, and punishment of candidate found guilty by such report.
31, 32 Vict. c. 125.

- (a.) "Whether any corrupt practice has or has not been proved to have been committed by or with the knowledge and consent of any candidate at such election, and the nature of such corrupt practice ;
- (b.) "The names of all persons, if any, who have been proved at the trial to have been guilty of any corrupt practice ;
- (c.) "Whether corrupt practices have, or whether there is reason to believe corrupt practices have, extensively prevailed at the election to which the petition relates":

A.D. 1883.

And whereas it is expedient to extend the said sub-section to illegal practices :

Be it therefore enacted as follows :—

31 & 32 Vict.
c. 125.

Sub-section fourteen of section eleven of the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868, shall apply as if that sub-section were herein re-enacted with the substitution of illegal practice within the meaning of this Act for corrupt practice; and upon the trial of an election petition respecting an election for a county or borough, the election court shall report in writing to the Speaker the particulars required by the said sub-section as herein re-enacted, and shall also report whether any candidate at such election has been guilty by his agents of any illegal practice within the meaning of this Act in reference to such election, and the following consequences shall ensue upon the report by the election court to the Speaker; (that is to say,)

- (a.) If the report is that any illegal practice has been proved to have been committed in reference to such election by or with the knowledge and consent of any candidate at such election, that candidate shall not be capable of being elected to or sitting in the House of Commons for the said county or borough for seven years next after the date of the report, and if he has been elected his election shall be void; and he shall further be subject to the same incapacities as if at the date of the report he had been convicted of such illegal practice; and
- (b.) If the report is that a candidate at such election has been guilty by his agents of any illegal practice in reference to such election, that candidate shall not be capable of being elected to or sitting in the House of Commons for the said county or borough during the Parliament for which the election was held, and if he has been elected, his election shall be void.

Extension of
15 & 16 Vict.
c. 57, respecting election commissioners to illegal practices.
15 & 16 Vict.
c. 57.
31 & 32 Vict.
c. 125.

12. Whereas by the Election Commissioners Act, 1852, as amended by the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868, it is enacted that where a joint address of both Houses of Parliament represents to Her Majesty that an election court has reported to the Speaker that corrupt practices have, or that there is reason to believe that corrupt practices have, extensively prevailed at an election in any county or borough, and prays Her Majesty to cause inquiry under that Act to be made by persons named in such address (being qualified as therein mentioned), it shall be lawful for Her Majesty to appoint the said persons to be election commissioners for the purpose of making inquiry into the existence of such corrupt practices :

And whereas it is expedient to extend the said enactments to the case of illegal practices :

Be it therefore enacted as follows :—

When election commissioners have been appointed in pursuance of the Election Commissioners Act, 1852, and the enactments amending the same, they may make inquires and act and report as if 'corrupt practices' in the said Act and the enactments amending the same included illegal practices; and the Election Commissioners Act, 1852, shall be construed with such modifications as are necessary for giving effect to this section, and the expression 'corrupt practice' in that Act shall have the same meaning as in this Act.

A.D. 1883.
15 & 16 Vict.
c. 57.

Illegal Payment, Employment, and Hiring.

13. Where a person knowingly provides money for any payment which is contrary to the provisions of this Act, or for any expenses incurred in excess of any maximum amount allowed by this Act, or for replacing any money expended in any such payment or expenses, except where the same may have been previously allowed in pursuance of this Act to be an exception, such person shall be guilty of illegal payment.

Providing of money for illegal practice or payment to be illegal payment.

14. (1.) A person shall not let, lend, or employ for the purpose of the conveyance of electors to or from the poll, any public stage or hackney carriage, or any horse or other animal kept or used for drawing the same, or any carriage, horse, or other animal which he keeps or uses for the purpose of letting out for hire, and if he lets, lends, or employs such carriage, horse, or other animal, knowing that it is intended to be used for the purpose of the conveyance of electors to or from the poll, he shall be guilty of an illegal hiring.

Employment of hackney carriages, or of carriages and horses kept for hire.

(2.) A person shall not hire, borrow, or use for the purpose of the conveyance of electors to or from the poll any carriage, horse, or other animal which he knows the owner thereof is prohibited by this section to let, lend, or employ for that purpose, and if he does so he shall be guilty of an illegal hiring.

(3.) Nothing in this Act shall prevent a carriage, horse, or other animal being let to or hired, employed, or used by an elector, or several electors at their joint cost, for the purpose of being conveyed to or from the poll.

(4.) No person shall be liable to pay any duty or to take out a license for any carriage by reason only of such carriage being used without payment or promise of payment for the conveyance of electors to or from the poll at an election.

15. Any person who corruptly induces or procures any other person to withdraw from being a candidate at an election, in consideration of any payment or promise of payment, shall be guilty of illegal payment, and any person withdrawing, in pursuance of such inducement or procurement, shall also be guilty of illegal payment.

(2.) Subject to such exception as may be allowed in pursuance of this Act, if any payment or contract for payment is made in contravention of this section, either before, during, or after an election, the person making such payment shall be guilty of illegal payment, and any person being a party to any such contract or receiving such payment shall also be guilty of illegal payment if he knew that the same was made contrary to law.

Certain employment to be illegal.

17. (1.) No person shall, for the purpose of promoting or procuring the election of a candidate at any election, be engaged or employed for payment or promise of payment for any purpose or in any capacity whatever, except for any purposes or capacities mentioned in the first or second parts of the First Schedule to this Act, or except so far as payment is authorised by the first or second parts of the First Schedule to this Act.

(2.) Subject to such exception as may be allowed in pursuance of this Act, if any person is engaged or employed in contravention of this section, either before, during, or after an election, the person engaging or employing him shall be guilty of illegal employment, and the person so engaged or employed shall also be guilty of illegal employment if he knew that he was engaged or employed contrary to law.

18. Every bill, placard, or poster having reference to an election shall bear upon the face thereof the name and address of the printer and publisher thereof; and any person printing, publishing, or posting, or causing to be printed, published, or posted, any such bill, placard, or poster as aforesaid, which fails to bear upon the face thereof the name and address of the printer and publisher, shall, if he is the candidate, or the election agent of the candidate, be guilty of an illegal practice, and if he is not the candidate, or the election agent of a candidate, shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds.

Saving for creditors.

19. The provisions of this Act prohibiting certain payments and contracts for payments, and the payment of any sum, and the incurring of any expense in excess of a certain maximum, shall not affect the right of any creditor, who, when the contract was made or the expense was incurred, was ignorant of the same being in contravention of this Act.

Use of committee room in house for 20. (a.) Any premises on which the sale by wholesale or retail of any intoxicating liquor is authorised by a licence (whether the licence be for consumption on or off the premises), or

(b.) Any premises where any intoxicating liquor is sold, or is supplied to members of a club, society, or association other than a permanent political club, or

(c.) Any premises whereon refreshment of any kind, whether food or drink, is ordinarily sold for consumption on the premises, or

(d.) The premises of any public elementary school in receipt of an annual parliamentary grant, or any part of any such premises, shall not be used as a committee room for the purpose of promoting or procuring the election of a candidate at an election, and if any person hires or uses any such premises or any part thereof for a committee room he shall be guilty of illegal hiring, and the person letting such premises or part, if he knew it was intended to use the same as a committee room, shall also be guilty of illegal hiring:

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to any part of such premises which is ordinarily let for the purpose of chambers or offices or the holding of public meetings or of arbitrations, if such part has a separate entrance and no direct communication with any part of the premises on which any intoxicating liquor or refreshment is sold or supplied as aforesaid.

(a.) That no corrupt or illegal practice was committed at such election by the candidate or his election agent and the offences mentioned in the said report were committed contrary to the orders and without the sanction or connivance of such candidate or his election agent; and

(b.) That such candidate and his election agent took all reasonable means for preventing the commission of corrupt and illegal practices at such election; and then the election of such candidate shall not, by reason of the offences mentioned in such report, be void, nor shall the candidate be subject to any incapacity under this Act.

Power of High Court and election court to except innocent act from being illegal practice, &c.

23. Where, on application made, it is shown to the High Court or to an election court by such evidence as seems to the Court sufficient—

(a.) that any act or omission of a candidate at any election, or of his election agent or of any other agent or person, would, by reason of being a payment, engagement, employment, or contract in contravention of this Act, or being the payment of a sum or the incurring of expense in excess of any maximum amount allowed by this Act, or of otherwise being in contravention of any of the provisions of this Act, be but for this section an illegal practice, payment, employment, or hiring ; and

(b.) that such act or omission arose from inadvertence or from accidental miscalculation or from some other reasonable cause of a like nature, and in any case did not arise from any want of good faith ; and

(c.) that such notice of the application has been given in the county or borough for which the election was held as to the court seems fit ; and under the circumstances it seems to the Court to be just that the candidate and the said election and other agent and person, or any of them, should not be subject to any of the consequences under this Act of the said act or omission, the Court may make an order allowing such act or omission to be an exception from the provisions of this Act which would otherwise make the same an illegal practice, payment, employment, or hiring, and thereupon such candidate, agent, or person shall not be subject to any of the consequences under this Act of the said act or omission.

Election Expenses.

Nomination of election agent.

24. (1.) On or before the day of nomination at an election, a person shall be named by or on behalf of each candidate as his agent for such election (in this Act referred to as the election agent).

(2.) A candidate may name himself as election agent, and thereupon shall, so far as circumstances admit, be subject to the provisions of this Act both as a candidate and as an election agent, and any reference in this Act to an election agent shall be construed to refer to the candidate acting in his capacity of election agent.

(3.) On or before the day of nomination the name and address of the election agent of each candidate shall be declared in writing by the candidate or some other person on his behalf to the returning officer, and the returning officer shall forthwith give public notice of the name and address of every election agent so declared.

A.D. 1883.

(4.) One election agent only shall be appointed for each candidate, but the appointment, whether the election agent appointed be the candidate himself or not, may be revoked, and in the event of such revocation or his death, whether such event is before, during, or after the election, then forthwith another election agent shall be appointed, and his name and address declared in writing to the returning officer, who shall forthwith give public notice of the same.

25. (1.) In the case of the elections specified in that behalf in the First Schedule to this Act an election agent of a candidate may appoint the number of deputies therein mentioned (which deputies are in this Act referred to as sub-agents), to act within different polling districts.

Nomination of deputy election agent
as sub-agent.

(2.) As regards matters in a polling district the election agent may act by the sub-agent for that district, and anything done for the purposes of this Act by or to the sub-agent in his district shall be deemed to be done by or to the election agent, and any act or default of a sub-agent which, if he were the election agent, would be an illegal practice or other offence against this Act, shall be an illegal practice and offence against this Act committed by the sub-agent, and the sub-agent shall be liable to punishment accordingly; and the candidate shall suffer the like incapacity as if the said act or default had been the act or default of the election agent.

(3.) One clear day before the polling the election agent shall declare in writing the name and address of every sub-agent to the returning officer, and the returning officer shall forthwith give public notice of the name and address of every sub-agent so declared.

(4.) The appointment of a sub-agent shall not be vacated by the election agent who appointed him ceasing to be election agent, but may be revoked by the election agent for the time being of the candidate, and in the event of such revocation or of the death of a sub-agent, another sub-agent may be appointed, and his name and address shall be forthwith declared in writing to the returning officer, who shall forthwith give public notice of the same.

26. (1.) An election agent at an election for a county or borough shall have within the county or borough, or within any county of a city or town adjoining thereto, and a sub-agent shall have within his district, or within any county of a city or town adjoining thereto, an office or place to which all claims, notices, writs, summons, and documents may be sent, and the address of such office or place shall be declared at the same time as the appointment of the said agent to the returning officer, and shall be stated in the public notice of the name of the agent.

(2.) Any claim, notice, writ, summons, or document delivered at such office or place and addressed to the election agent or sub-agent, as the case may be, shall be deemed to have been served on him, and every such agent may in respect of any matter connected with the election in which he is acting be sued in any court having jurisdiction in the county or borough in which the said office or place is situate.

Making of contracts through election agent.

27. (1.) The election agent of a candidate by himself or by his sub-agent shall appoint every polling agent, clerk, and messenger employed for payment on behalf of the candidate at an election, and hire every committee room hired on behalf of the candidate.

(2.) A contract whereby any expenses are incurred on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of an election shall not be enforceable against a candidate at such election unless made by the candidate himself or by his election agent, either by himself or by his sub-agent; provided that the inability under this section to enforce such contract against the candidate shall not relieve the candidate from the consequences of any corrupt or illegal practice having been committed by his agent.

Payment of expenses through election agent.

28. (1.) Except as permitted by or in pursuance of this Act, no payment and no advance or deposit shall be made by a candidate at an election or by any agent on behalf of the candidate or by any other person at any time, whether before, during, or after such election, in respect of any expenses incurred on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of such election, otherwise than by or through the election agent of the candidate, whether acting in person or by a sub-agent; and all money provided by any person other than the candidate for any expenses incurred on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of the election, whether as gift, loan, advance, or deposit, shall be paid to the candidate or his election agent and not otherwise;

Provided that this section shall not be deemed to apply to a tender of security to or any payment by the returning officer or to any sum disbursed by any person out of his own money for any small expense legally incurred by himself, if such sum is not repaid to him.

(2.) A person who makes any payment, advance, or deposit in contravention of this section, or pays in contravention of this section any money so provided as aforesaid, shall be guilty of an illegal practice.

29. (1.) Every payment made by an election agent, whether by himself or a sub-agent, in respect of any expenses incurred on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of an election, shall, except where less than 40s. be vouched for by a bill stating the particulars and by a receipt.

(2.) Every claim against a candidate at an election or his election agent in respect of any expenses incurred on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of such election which is not sent in to the election agent within the time limited by this Act shall be barred and shall not be paid; and, subject to such exception as may be allowed in pursuance of this Act, an election agent who pays a claim in contravention of this enactment shall be guilty of an illegal practice.

(3.) Except as by this Act permitted, the time limited by this Act for sending in claims shall be fourteen days after the day on which the candidates returned are declared elected.

(4.) All expenses incurred by or on behalf of a candidate at an election, which are incurred on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of such election shall be paid within the time limited by this Act and not otherwise; and, subject to such exception as may be allowed in pursuance of this Act, an election agent who makes a payment in contravention of this provision shall be guilty of an illegal practice.

(5.) Except as by this Act permitted, the time limited by this Act for the payment of such expenses as aforesaid shall be twenty-eight days after the day on which the candidates returned are declared elected.

(6.) Where the election court reports that it has been proved to such court by a candidate that any payment made by an election agent in contravention of this section was made without the sanction or connivance of such candidate, the election of such candidate shall not be void, nor shall he be subject to any incapacity under this Act by reason only of such payment having been made in contravention of this section.

(7.) If the election agent in the case of any claim sent in to him within the time limited by this Act disputes it, or refuses or fails to pay it within the said period of twenty-eight days, such claim shall be deemed to be a disputed claim.

(8.) The claimant may, if he thinks fit, bring an action for a disputed claim in any competent court; and any sum paid by the candidate or his agent in pursuance of the judgment or order of such court shall be deemed to be paid within the time limited by this Act, and to be an exception from the provisions of this Act, requiring claims to be paid by the election agent.

(9.) On cause shown to the satisfaction of the High Court, such court on application by the claimant or by the candidate or his election agent may by order give leave for the payment by a candidate or his election agent of a disputed claim, or of a claim for any such expenses as aforesaid, although sent in after the time in this section mentioned for sending in claims, or

30. If any action is brought in any competent court to recover a disputed claim against a candidate at an election, or his election agent, in respect of any expenses incurred on account or in respect of the conduct or management of such election, and the defendant admits his liability, but disputes the amount of the claim, the said amount shall, unless the court, on the application of the plaintiff in the action, otherwise directs, be forthwith referred for taxation to the master, official referee, registrar, or other proper officer of the court, and the amount found due on such taxation shall be the amount to be recovered in such action in respect of such claim.

31. (1.) The candidate at an election may pay any personal expenses incurred by him on account of or in connection with or incidental to such election to an amount not exceeding one hundred pounds, but any further personal expenses so incurred by him shall be paid by his election agent.

(2.) The candidate shall send to the election agent within the time limited by this Act for sending in claims a written statement of the amount of personal expenses paid as aforesaid by such candidate.

(3.) Any person may, if so authorised in writing by the election agent of the candidate, pay any necessary expenses for stationery, postage, telegrams, and other petty expenses, to a total amount not exceeding that named in the authority, but any excess above the total amount so named shall be paid by the election agent.

(4.) A statement of the particulars of payments made by any person so authorised shall be sent to the election agent within the time limited by this Act for the sending in of claims, and shall be vouched for by a bill containing the receipt of that person.

Remuneration of election agent and returning officer's expenses.

32. (1.) So far as circumstances admit, this Act shall apply to a claim for his remuneration by an election agent and to the payment thereof in like manner as if he were any other creditor, and if any difference arises respecting the amount of such claim the claim shall be a disputed claim within the meaning of this Act, and be dealt with accordingly.

(2.) The account of the charges claimed by the returning officer in the case of a candidate and transmitted in pursuance of section four of the Parliamentary Elections (Returning Officers) Act, 1875, shall be transmitted within the time specified in the said section to the election agent of the candidate, and need not be transmitted to the candidate. A.D. 1883.

33. (1.) Within thirty-five days after the day on which the candidates returned at an election are declared elected, the election agent of every candidate at that election shall transmit to the returning officer a true return (in this Act referred to as a return respecting election expenses), in the form set forth in the Second Schedule to this Act or to the like effect, containing, as respects that candidate,—

Return and declaration respecting election expenses.

- (a.) A statement of all payments made by the election agent, together with all the bills and receipts (which bills and receipts are in this Act included in the expression “return respecting election expenses”);
- (b.) A statement of the amount of personal expenses, if any, paid by the candidate;
- (c.) A statement of the sums paid to the returning officer for his charges, or, if the amount is in dispute, of the sum claimed and the amount disputed;
- (d.) A statement of all other disputed claims of which the election agent is aware;
- (e.) A statement of all the unpaid claims, if any, of which the election agent is aware, in respect of which application has been or is about to be made to the High Court;
- (f.) A statement of all money, securities, and equivalent of money received by the election agent from the candidate or any other person for the purpose of expenses incurred or to be incurred on account of or in respect of the conduct or management of the election, with a statement of the name of every person from whom the same may have been received.

(2.) The return so transmitted to the returning officer shall be accompanied by a declaration made by the election agent before a justice of the peace in the form in the Second Schedule to this Act (which declaration is in this Act referred to as a declaration respecting election expenses).

(3.) Where the candidate has named himself as his election agent, a statement of all money, securities, and equivalent of money paid by the candidate shall be substituted in the return required by this section to be transmitted by the election agent for the like statement of money, securities, and equivalent of money received by the election agent from the candidate; and the declaration by an election agent respecting election expenses need not be made, and the declaration by the candidate respecting election expenses shall be modified as specified in the Second Schedule to this Act.

(4.) At the same time that the agent transmits the said return, or within seven days afterwards, the candidate shall transmit or cause to be transmitted to the returning officer a declaration made by him before a justice of the peace, in the form in the first part of the Second Schedule to this Act (which declaration is in this Act referred to as a declaration respecting election expenses).

(5.) If in the case of an election for any county or borough, the said return and declarations are not transmitted before the expiration of the time limited for the purpose, the candidate shall not, after the expiration of such time, sit or vote in the House of Commons as member for that county or borough until either such return and declarations have been transmitted, or until the date of the allowance of such an authorised excuse for the failure to transmit the same, as in this Act mentioned, and if he sits or votes in contravention of this enactment he shall forfeit one hundred pounds for every day on which he so sits or votes to any person who sues for the same.

(6.) If without such authorised excuse as in this Act mentioned, a candidate or an election agent fails to comply with the requirements of this section he shall be guilty of an illegal practice.

(7.) If any candidate or election agent knowingly makes the declaration required by this section falsely, he shall be guilty of an offence, and on conviction thereof on indictment shall be liable to the punishment for wilful and corrupt perjury; such offence shall also be deemed to be a corrupt practice within the meaning of this Act.

(8.) Where the candidate is out of the United Kingdom at the time when the return is so transmitted to the returning officer, the declaration required by this section may be made by him within fourteen days after his return to the United Kingdom, and in that case shall be forthwith transmitted to the returning officer, but the delay hereby authorised in making such declaration shall not exonerate the election agent from complying with the provisions of this Act as to the return and declaration respecting election expenses.

(9.) Where, after the date at which the return respecting election expenses is transmitted, leave is given by the High Court for any claims to be paid, the candidate or his election agent shall, within seven days after the payment thereof, transmit to the returning officer a return of the sums paid in pursuance of such leave accompanied by a copy of the order of the court giving the leave, and in default he shall be deemed to have failed to comply with the requirements of this section without such authorised excuse as in this Act mentioned.

34. (1.) Where the return and declarations respecting election expenses of a candidate at an election for a county or borough have not been transmitted as required by this Act, or being transmitted contain some error or false statement, then—

(a.) if the candidate applies to the High Court or an election court and shows that the failure to transmit such return and declarations, or any of them, or any part thereof, or any error or false statement therein, has arisen by reason of his illness, or of the absence, death, illness, or misconduct of his election agent or sub-agent, or of any clerk or officer of such agent, or by reason of inadvertence or of any reasonable cause of a like nature, and not by reason of any want of good faith on the part of the applicant, or declaration respecting election expenses.

- (b.) if the election agent of the candidate applies to the High Court or an election court and shows that the failure to transmit the return and declarations which he was required to transmit, or any part thereof, or any error or false statement therein, arose by reason of his illness or of the death or illness of any prior election agent of the candidate, or of the absence, death, illness, or misconduct of any sub-agent, clerk, or officer of an election agent of the candidate, or by reason of inadvertence or of any reasonable cause of a like nature, and not by reason of any want of good faith on the part of the applicant, the court may, after such notice of the application in the said county or borough, and on production of such evidence of the grounds stated in the application, and of the good faith of the application and otherwise, as to the court seems fit, make such order for allowing an authorised excuse for the failure to transmit such return and declaration, or for an error or false statement in such return and declaration, as to the court seems just.

(2.) Where it appears to the court that any person being or having been election agent or sub-agent has refused or failed to make such return or to supply such particulars as will enable the candidate and his election agent respectively to comply with the provisions of this Act as to the return and declaration respecting election expenses, the court before making an order allowing the excuse as in this section mentioned shall order such person to attend before the court, and on his attendance shall, unless he shows cause to the contrary, order him to make the return and declaration, or to deliver a statement of the particulars required to be contained in the return, as to the court seem just, and to make or deliver the same within such time and to such person and in such manner as the court may direct, or may order him to be examined with respect to such particulars, and may in default of compliance with any such order, order him to pay a fine not exceeding five hundred pounds.

(3.) The order may make the allowance conditional upon the making of the return and declaration in a modified form or within an extended time, and upon the compliance with such other terms as to the court seem best calculated for carrying into effect the objects of this Act; and an order allowing an authorised excuse shall relieve the applicant for the order from any liability or consequences under this Act in respect of the

A.D. 1883. matter excused by the order; and where it is proved by the candidate to the court that any act or omission of the election agent in relation to the return and declaration respecting election expenses was without the sanction or connivance of the candidate, and that the candidate took all reasonable means for preventing such act or omission, the court shall relieve the candidate from the consequences of such act or omission on the part of his election agent.

(4.) The date of the order, or if conditions and terms are to be complied with, the date at which the applicant fully complies with them, is referred to in this Act as the date of the allowance of the excuse.

Publication of summary of
return of election expenses.

35. (1.) The returning officer at an election within ten days after he receives from the election agent of a candidate a return respecting election expenses shall publish a summary of the return in not less than two newspapers circulating in the county or borough for which the election was held, accompanied by a notice of the time and place at which the return and declarations (including the accompanying documents) can be inspected, and may charge the candidate in respect of such publication, and the amount of such charge shall be the sum allowed by the Parliamentary Election (Returning Officers) Act, 1875.

38 & 39 Vict.
c. 84.

(2.) The return and declarations (including the accompanying documents) sent to the returning officer by an election agent shall be kept at the office of the returning officer, or some convenient place appointed by him, and shall at all reasonable times during two years next after they are received by the returning officer be open to inspection by any person on payment of a fee of one shilling, and the returning officer shall on demand furnish copies thereof or any part thereof at the price of twopence for every seventy-two words. After the expiration of the said two years the returning officer may cause the said return and declarations (including the accompanying documents) to be destroyed, or, if the candidate or his election agent so require, shall return the same to the candidate.

c. 60.
45 & 46 Vict.
c. 50.

37. Every person who, in consequence of conviction or of the report of any election court or election commissioners under this Act, or under the Corrupt Practices (Municipal Elections) Act, 1872, or under Part IV. of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, or under any other Act for the time being in force relating to corrupt practices at an election for any public office, has become incapable of voting at any election, whether a parliamentary election or an election to any public office, is prohibited from voting at any such election, and his vote shall be void.

A.D. 1883.

38. (1.) Before a person, not being a party to an election petition nor a candidate on behalf of whom the seat is claimed by an election petition, is reported by an election court, and before any person is reported by election commissioners, to have been guilty, at an election, of any corrupt or illegal practice, the court or commissioners, as the case may be, shall cause notice to be given to such person, and if he appears in pursuance of the notice, shall give him an opportunity of being heard by himself and of calling evidence in his defence to show why he should not be so reported.

Hearing of person before he is reported guilty of corrupt or illegal practice, and incapacity of person reported guilty.

(2.) Every person reported by election commissioners to have been guilty at an election of any corrupt or illegal practice may appeal against such report to the next court of oyer and terminer or gaol delivery held in and for the county or place in which the offence is alleged to have been committed, and such court may hear and determine the appeal; and subject to rules of court such appeal may be brought, heard, and determined in like manner as if the court were a court of quarter sessions and the said commissioners were a court of summary jurisdiction, and the person so reported had been convicted by a court of summary jurisdiction for an offence under this Act, and notice of every such appeal shall be given to the Director of Public Prosecutions in the manner and within the time directed by rules of court, and subject to such rules then within three days after the appeal is brought.

(3.) Where it appears to the Lord Chancellor that appeals under this section are interfering or are likely to interfere with the ordinary business transacted before any courts of oyer and terminer or gaol delivery, he may direct that the said appeals, or any of them, shall be heard by the judges for the time being on the rota for election petitions, and in such case one of such judges shall proceed to the county or place in which the offences are alleged to have been committed, and shall there hear and determine the appeals in like manner as if such judge were a court of oyer and terminer.

(4.) The provisions of the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868, with respect to the reception and powers of and attendance on an election court, and to the expenses of an election court, and of receiving and accommodating an election court, shall apply as if such judge were an election court.

(5.) Every person who after the commencement of this Act is reported by any election court or election commissioners to have been guilty of any corrupt or illegal practice at an election, shall, whether he obtained a certificate of indemnity or not, be subject to the same incapacity as he would be subject to if he had at the date of such election been convicted of the offence of which he is reported to have been guilty: Provided that a

A.D. 1883. report of any election commissioners inquiring into an election for a county or borough shall not avoid the election of any candidate who has been declared by an election court on the trial of a petition respecting such election to have been duly elected at such election or render him incapable of sitting in the House of Commons for the said county or borough during the Parliament for which he was elected.

(6.) Where a person who is a justice of the peace is reported by any election court or election commissioners to have been guilty of any corrupt practice in reference to an election, whether he has obtained a certificate of indemnity or not, it shall be the duty of the Director of Public Prosecutions to report the case to the Lord High Chancellor of Great Britain with such evidence as may have been given of such corrupt practice, and where any such person acts as a justice of the peace by virtue of his being, or having been, mayor of a borough, the Lord High Chancellor shall have the same power to remove such person from being a justice of the peace as if he was named in a commission of the peace.

(7.) Where a person who is a barrister or a solicitor, or who belongs to any profession the admission to which is regulated by law, is reported by any election court or election commissioners to have been guilty of any corrupt practice in reference to an election, whether such person has obtained a certificate of indemnity or not, it shall be the duty of the Director of Public Prosecutions to bring the matter before the Inn of Court, High Court, or tribunal having power to take cognizance of any misconduct of such person in his profession, and such Inn of Court, High Court, or tribunal may deal with such person in like manner as if such corrupt practice were misconduct by such person in his profession.

(8.) With respect to a person holding a license or certificate under the Licensing Acts (in this section referred to as a licensed person) the following provisions shall have effect:

(a.) If it appears to the court by which any licensed person is convicted of the offence of bribery or treating that such offence was committed on his licensed premises, the court shall direct such conviction to be entered in the proper register of licenses.

(b.) If it appears to an election court or election commissioners that a licensed person has knowingly suffered any bribery or treating in reference to any election to take place upon his licensed premises, such court or commissioners (subject to the provisions of this Act as to a person having an opportunity of being heard by himself and producing evidence before being reported) shall report the same; and whether such person obtained a certificate of indemnity or not it shall be the duty of the Director of Public Prosecutions to bring such report before the licensing justices from whom or on whose certificate the licensed person obtained his license, and such licensing justices shall cause such report to be entered in the proper register of licenses.

- (c.) Where an entry is made in the register of licenses of any such conviction of or report respecting any licensed person as above in this section mentioned, it shall be taken into consideration by the licensing justices in determining whether they will or will not grant to such person the renewal of his license or certificate, and may be a ground, if the justices think fit, for refusing such renewal.

(9.) Where the evidence showing any corrupt practice to have been committed by a justice of the peace, barrister, solicitor, or other professional person, or any licensed person, was given before election commissioners, those commissioners shall report the case to the Director of Public Prosecutions, with such information as is necessary or proper for enabling him to act under this section.

(10.) This section shall apply to an election court under this Act, or under Part IV. of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, and the expression election shall be construed accordingly.

39. (1.) The registration officer in every county and borough shall annually make out a list containing the names and description of all persons who, though otherwise qualified to vote at a parliamentary election for such county or borough respectively, are not capable of voting by reason of having after the commencement of this Act been found guilty of a corrupt or illegal practice on conviction or by the report of any election court or election commissioners whether under this Act, or under Part IV. of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, or under any other Act for the time being in force relating to a parliamentary election or an election to any public office; and such officer shall state in the list (in this Act referred to as the corrupt and illegal practices list), the offence of which each person has been found guilty.

List in register of voters of persons incapacitated for voting by corrupt or illegal practices.

45 & 46 Vict. c. 50.

(2.) For the purpose of making out such list he shall examine the report of any election court or election commissioners who have respectively tried an election petition or inquired into an election where the election (whether a parliamentary election or an election to any public office) was held in any of the following places; that is to say,

- (a.) if he is the registration officer of a county, in that county, or in any borough in that county; and (b.) if he is the registration officer of a borough, in the county in which such borough is situate, or in any borough in that county.

(3.) The registration officer shall send the list to the overseers of every parish within his county or borough, together with his precept, and the overseers shall publish the list together with the list of voters, and shall also, in the case of every person in the corrupt and illegal practices list, omit his name from the list of persons entitled to vote, or, as circumstances require, add 'objected' before his name in the list of claimants or copy of the register published by them, in like manner as is required by law in any other cases of disqualification.

(4.) Any person named in the corrupt and illegal practices list may claim to have his name omitted therefrom, and any person entitled to object to any list of voters for the county or borough may object to the omission of the name of any person from such list. Such claims and objections shall be sent in within the same time and be dealt with in like manner, and any such objection shall be served on the person referred to therein in like manner, as nearly as circumstances admit, as other claims and objections under the enactments relating to the registration of parliamentary electors.

(5.) The revising barrister shall determine such claims and objections and shall revise such list in like manner as nearly as circumstances admit as in the case of other claims and objections, and of any list of voters.

(6.) Where it appears to the revising barrister that a person not named in the corrupt and illegal practices list is subject to have his name inserted in such list, he shall (whether an objection to the omission of such name from the list has or has not been made, but) after giving such person an opportunity of making a statement to show cause to the contrary, insert his name in such list and expunge his name from any list of voters.

(7.) A revising barrister in acting under this section shall determine only whether a person is incapacitated by conviction or by the report of any election court or election commissioners, and shall not determine whether a person has or not been guilty of any corrupt or illegal practice.

(8.) The corrupt and illegal practices list shall be appended to the register of electors, and shall be printed and published therewith wherever the same is printed or published.

Proceedings on Election Petition.

Time for presentation of election petitions alleging illegal practice.
31 & 32 Vict.
c. 125.

40. (1.) Where an election petition questions the return or the election upon an allegation of an illegal practice, then notwithstanding anything in the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868, such petition, so far as respects such illegal practice, may be presented within the time following; (that is to say)

- (a.) At any time before the expiration of fourteen days after the day on which the returning officer receives the return and declarations respecting election expenses by the member to whose election the petition relates and his election agent.
- (b.) If the election petition specifically alleges a payment of money, or some other act to have been made or done since the said day by the member or an agent of the member, or with the privity of the member or his election agent in pursuance or in furtherance of the illegal practice alleged in the petition, the petition may be presented at any time within twenty-eight days after the date of such payment or other act.

A. D. 1883.

(2.) Any election petition presented within the time limited by the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868, may for the purpose of questioning the return or the election upon an allegation of an illegal practice be amended with the leave of the High Court within the time within which a petition questioning the return upon the allegation of that illegal practice can under this section be presented. 31 & 32 Viet. c. 125.

(3.) This section shall apply in the case of an offence relating to the return and declarations respecting election expenses in like manner as if it were an illegal practice, and also shall apply notwithstanding that the act constituting the alleged illegal practice amounted to a corrupt practice.

(4.) For the purposes of this section—

(a.) where the return and declarations are received on different days, the day on which the last of them is received, and

(b.) where there is an authorised excuse for failing to make and transmit the return and declarations respecting election expenses, the date of the allowance of the excuse, or if there was a failure as regards two or more of them, and the excuse was allowed at different times, the date of the allowance of the last excuse, shall be substituted for the day on which the return and declarations are received by the returning officer.

(5.) For the purposes of this section, time shall be reckoned in like manner as it is reckoned for the purposes of the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868.

41. (1.) Before leave for the withdrawal of an election petition is granted, there shall be produced affidavits by all the parties to the petition and their solicitors, and by the election agents of all of the said parties who were candidates at the election, but the High Court may on cause shown dispense with the affidavit of any particular person if it seems to the court on special grounds to be just so to do.

Withdrawal

(2.) Each affidavit shall state that, to the best of the deponent's knowledge and belief no agreement or terms of any kind whatsoever has or have been made, and no undertaking has been entered into, in relation to the withdrawal of the petition; but if any lawful agreement has been made with respect to the withdrawal of the petition, the affidavit shall set forth that agreement, and shall make the foregoing statement subject to what appears from the affidavit.

(3.) The affidavits of the applicant and his solicitor shall further state the ground on which the petition is sought to be withdrawn.

(4.) If any person makes any agreement or terms, or enters into any undertaking, in relation to the withdrawal of an election petition, and such agreement, terms, or undertaking is or are for the withdrawal of the election petition in consideration of any payment, or in consideration that the seat shall at any time be vacated, or in consideration of the withdrawal of any other election petition, or is or are (whether lawful or unlawful) not mentioned in the aforesaid affidavits, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be liable on conviction on indictment to imprisonment for a term not exceeding twelve months, and to a fine not exceeding two hundred pounds.

(5.) Copies of the said affidavits shall be delivered to the Director of Public Prosecutions a reasonable time before the application for the withdrawal is heard, and the court may hear the Director of Public Prosecutions or his assistant or other representative (appointed with the approval of the Attorney-General), in opposition to the allowance of the withdrawal of the petition, and shall have power to receive the evidence on oath of any person or persons whose evidence the Director of Public Prosecutions or his assistant, or other representative, may consider material.

(6.) Where in the opinion of the court the proposed withdrawal of a petition was the result of any agreement, terms, or undertaking prohibited by this section, the court shall have the same power with respect to the security as under section thirty-five of the Parliamentary Elections Act, 1868, where the withdrawal is induced by a corrupt consideration.

(7.) In every case of the withdrawal of an election petition the court shall report to the Speaker whether, in the opinion of such court, the withdrawal of such petition was the result of any agreement, terms, or undertaking, or was in consideration of any payment, or in consideration that the seat should at any time be vacated, or in consideration of the withdrawal of any other election petition, or for any other consideration, and if so, shall state the circumstances attending the withdrawal.

(8.) Where more than one solicitor is concerned for the petitioner or respondent, whether as agent for another solicitor or otherwise, the affidavit shall be made by all such solicitors.

(9.) Where a person not a solicitor is lawfully acting as agent in the case of an election petition, that agent shall be deemed to be a solicitor for the purpose of making an affidavit in pursuance of this section.

Continuation of trial of

42. The trial of every election petition so far as is practicable, consistently with the interests of justice in respect of such trial, shall be continued de die in diem on every lawful day until its conclusion, and in case the rota of judges for the year shall expire before the conclusion of the trial, or of all the proceedings in relation or incidental to the petition, the authority of the said judges shall continue for the purpose of the said trial and proceedings.

43. (1.) On every trial of an election petition the Director of Public Prosecutions shall by himself or by his assistant, or by such representative as herein-after mentioned, attend at the trial, and it shall be the duty of such Director to obey any directions given to him by the election court with respect to the summoning and examination of any witness to give evidence on such trial, and with respect to the prosecution by him of offenders, and with respect to any person to whom notice is given to attend with a view to report him as guilty of any corrupt or illegal practice.

(2.) It shall also be the duty of such Director, without any direction from the election court, if it appears to him that any person is able to give material evidence as to the subject of the trial, to cause such person to attend the trial, and with the leave of the court to examine such person as a witness.

(3.) It shall also be the duty of the said Director, without any direction from the election court, if it appears to him that any person who has not received a certificate of indemnity has been guilty of a corrupt or illegal practice, to prosecute such person for the offence before the said court, or if he thinks it expedient in the interests of justice before any other competent court.

(4.) Where a person is prosecuted before an election court for any corrupt or illegal practice, and such person appears before the court, the court shall proceed to try him summarily for the said offence, and such person, if convicted thereof upon such trial, shall be subject to the same incapacities as he is rendered subject to under this Act upon conviction, whether on indictment or in any other proceeding for the said offence; and further, may be adjudged by the court, if the offence is a corrupt practice, to be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for a term not exceeding six months, or to pay a fine not exceeding two hundred pounds, and if the offence is an illegal practice, to pay such fine as is fixed by this Act for the offence;

Provided that, in the case of a corrupt practice, the court, before proceeding to try summarily any person, shall give such person the option of being tried by a jury.

(5.) Where a person is so prosecuted for any such offence, and either he elects to be tried by a jury or he does not appear before the court, or the court thinks it in the interests of justice expedient that he should be tried before some other court, the court, if of opinion that the evidence is sufficient to put the said person upon his trial for the offence, shall order such person to be prosecuted on indictment or before a court of summary jurisdiction, as the case may require, for the said offence; and in either case may order him to be prosecuted before such court as may be named in the order; and for all purposes preliminary and of and incidental to such prosecution the offence shall be deemed to have been committed within the jurisdiction of the court so named.

A.D. 1883.

- (6.) Upon such order being made,
- (a.) if the accused person is present before the court, and the offence is an indictable offence, the court shall commit him to take his trial, or cause him to give bail to appear and take his trial for the said offence; and
- (b.) if the accused person is present before the court, and the offence is not an indictable offence, the court shall order him to be brought before the court of summary jurisdiction before whom he is to be prosecuted, or cause him to give bail to appear before that court; and

A H A N D B O O K OF THE LAW OF
PARLIAMENTARY REGISTRATION,
With an Appendix of Statutes and full Index.

“An elementary as well as practical treatise on the subject was very much required, and is sure to be welcomed by a large section of the community.

“Overseers and others engaged in the routine of Registration work, would often be thankful for information in connection with their duties which can easily be understood and thoroughly relied upon. To all such we can safely recommend Mr. Seager’s little book, a perusal of which has satisfied us that the principles of Registration law are treated with judgment and clearness.”

“Great pains characterise the book throughout, which contains a good index, and an appendix in which the various statutes dealing with Registration are set out, so far as they are material.”—Law Journal.

“This little work will be found useful alike to the public, and to those who act as agents in Registration Courts. It clearly shews the various franchises existing in Counties and Boroughs, and how to obtain them.

“It cites the leading cases upon points which arise in Registration Courts as to residence, disqualification, &c. . . . Last, but not least, it contains eighteen pages of carefully compiled index, and being written by a practical man may be considered reliable.”—Law Times.

“Mr. Seager’s book explains both the law and the practice in a very lucid and able manner.”

“The decisions arrived at are compactly stated, so that persons who think themselves entitled to votes may solve the question with very little trouble by turning to this valuable handbook.”—Daily Chronicle.
